Pediatric Cancer Care

Pediatric Hematology/Oncology

The Division of Hematology/Oncology at the Children's Hospital of Michigan has made major contributions to the understanding and treatment of pediatric blood diseases and cancer.

The division combines advanced diagnosis and treatment options with compassionate care by a comprehensive team of board-certified pediatric providers on staff and more than 75 support staff. Division specialists work closely with other pediatric subspecialists to provide the some of the highest level of coordinated, multidisciplinary care.

Services and programs available include:

- Bone marrow transplantation
- Cancer survivorship program
- Coagulation laboratory
- Hematologic disorders
- Hemophilia and other blood diseases
- Oncology treatment
- Sick cell anemia
- Thrombosis clinic

Physicians are involved in extensive clinical, translational and bench research in pediatric blood diseases, coagulation and bleeding disorders and cancer/leukemia. Much of this research is funded by the National Institutes of Health, National Cancer Institute and other agencies.

Members of the division have held many leadership positions with national programs – including the Children's Oncology Group, Medical Director of the National Bleeding Disorders Foundation, formerly the National Hemophilia Foundation and Chair of the International Society on Thrombosis and Haemostasis Scientific and Standardization Committee. They have served on editorial boards, publish journal articles and are frequent lecturers at national and international meetings.
